

Asylum seeking and migrant
children and young people:
responding to their lived experience

Due to the interest and reporting on asylum seeking children and families this training has been developed to enable delegates to truly understand the backgrounds, cultures and whole experience of asylum seeking and migrant children and young people. The training will help delegates to start thinking about the cultures individuals and families are coming from, as well as the issues or conflicts they were fleeing from. This training will support delegates to understand the journey – what routes, experiences this may have entailed, and lasting effects from this (won't disappear as soon as safely arrived).
